Bishop Sherman Appeals For Entire Self Support of Anglican Church

Urges People to Rise to Great Patriotic Responsibility and Become Entirely Self-Supporting.

Glorious Opportunity to Do More Than Sing "There'll Always Be An England"—Will Visit All Canadian Dioceses.

Church of England people in Canada will have an opportunity of doing more than just singing "There'll Always Be An England," stated His Lordship Bishop Sherman in addressing Macleod people at a meeting of the Rural Deanery of Macleod in the parish hall on Tuesday evening.

He recently returned from a meeting of the executive council of the Church of England in Canada held at Stratford, Ontario, where he was appointed by the bishops to visit all dioceses in the Dominion to urge them to become self supporting in place of receiving money grants from church and missionary societies in England.

For 225 years, he stated, the church in Canada has been partly supported by these grants, running into thousands of pounds sterling every year. With the burdens the people there have to bear, he stated it is high time that every Canadian diocese decided to raise sufficient money from its own people to pay the expenses of its clergy and the continuance of the services.

Calgary diocese had led the way, he was proud to say, in this effort to make the church in Canada self supporting. In May last, an appeal was made for $2200 in addition to the amounts ordinarily raised in this diocese, and $4200 was donated. This relieved English church societies of part of the grants made to this diocese, and it was his ambition to make it entirely self supporting. He had faith it could be done, and he would like to see his own diocese lead the way in making the whole church throughout Canada self supporting. As to methods to be followed, he suggested that free discussion be entered into in each rural deanery, and a plan followed whereby the church would be assured of obtaining sufficient money regularly every quarter to meet church expenses and clergy stipends.

Every church member would receive a folder giving full details of the proposed plan to be followed, as well as showing the amounts received in the past by Canadian dioceses. 250,000 copies had been printed, and he asked every member to study it closely.

It was a great patriotic responsibility which the church was called on to assume, and he was confident we would rise to this responsibility after what England had done for us.

Mr. Stephen Lunn, a delegate to Synod, and a member of St. John's congregation, Pincher Creek, spoke enthusiastically and earnestly in support of the bishop's plea for self support, and also urged that following the war Canadian church people help to restore some of the churches ruined in England by the air raids.

Mayor Davis, speaking for Macleod, suggested that a general Diocesan appeal be made each year to raise the amounts required. Others thought it should be raised through assessments in each parish. The meeting was in favor of the bishop's proposal and each parish will make a report to Rural Dean Robert Axon of Macleod following meetings to discuss the proposal, which it is proposed to put into operation in 1941.

A pleasing ceremony at the close of the meeting was the presentation to Rev. and Mrs. Axon of a beautiful silver tray, with the following inscription: "Presented to Rev. and Mrs. Axon by the congregation of Macleod and Hazelmead, 1940."

Among the visitors from other places were Rev. P. C. Wade, Mr. A. Beaumont, and Mr. J. Ritchie of Lethbridge; Rev. W. Barlow of Peigan Indian Residential School; Rev. J. R. Hague of Coleman and Blairmore; Mr. Carswell of Pincher Creek.

Following the business session of the meeting and the presentation, lunch was served by the ladies of Christ Church congregation, bringing the evening to a pleasant close.

Many Soldiers Patronize Legion's Club in London

Ottawa—N.C.O.'s and men of the C.A.S.F. overseas have made the Canadian Legion War Services' residential club in London one of the most active leave centres in the Empire Capital, according to reports reaching here from Captain Charles W. Evans, manager of the Legion's organization in Great Britain.

The club, situated on Gower Street, and within a few minutes walk of Euston station, has been filled to capacity ever since the arrival of the 2nd Canadian Division by troops visiting the city on holiday or week-end leave. During one month 1,815 men were provided with bed and breakfast while hundreds of other meals were served. The club is operated by the Legion on a non-profit making basis, bed and breakfast being available at 3/- per night, less than 75c in Canadian money.

Considered the finest establishment of its kind in London, and certainly the most modern, the club provides in addition to residential facilities, free equipment for games, reading, writing, physical exercises, dancing and concert parties. Erected last year as a home for girls but never operated for that purpose because of the outbreak of the war, it has everything to make it a self-contained establishment equal to the better class hotels. A large air-raid shelter is situated adjacent to the building.

Members of the London Association of Canadian Ex-Servicemen, and their ladies auxiliary, have taken particular interest in the club and are rendering invaluable assistance in arranging dances, socials and concert parties. An information department is open day and night to assist the men in touring London itself or visiting other parts of the British Isles.

FOWL SUPPERS ARE ON THE DECLINE

(Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville, Ont.)

Do you remember the good old days when fowl suppers were a feature, each fall, throughout this bountiful community?

Today people scan the 'Coming Events' column and turn mournfully away, for these lush feasts have almost disappeared. This season there have been but two where formerly there were a dozen or more.

No more effective way has ever been devised for raising funds for church endeavours, and patriotic purposes.

Once filled with goose or turkey, with all their rich accompaniments, topped off with pumpkin pie and rich cream, there comes a feeling of expansiveness, of fellowship, and good cheer. Then, even the most reluctant melt into the mood that fills the coffers and assures the budget so necessary in the life of any community.

The cold canvases for money falls flat and impotent as measured against these suppers which once were an institution in rural Canadian life.

Tremendous effort, yet happy effort went into their preparation and our women folk did it all. Their compensation was the pleasure of seeing gourmet and gourmand alike respond to the bonities thus provided and that the cause

News From Petawawa Military Camp

A Number of Pass men are now training at Petawawa military camp, among them being Coleman's George Burchell and Angus McDonald; George Porteous, of Hillcrest and Matty Parker, of Bellevue, are two others and they are at the present time enjoying a holiday at their homes in the Pass.

According to Mr. Porteous The Journal is a welcome weekly visitor, first being read by George Burchell, then Angus McDonald, and so on down the line.

Mrs. Burchell and children have found accommodation in apartments at Pembroke, Ont. just a few miles from the military camp. While the Pass men sought Christmas and New Year leaves Angus McDonald proved the lone exception, but spent both Christmas and the New Year in camp. It seems that the beer in that part of the country is exceptionally strong, being 24 percent, and as Mr. Porteous described it, "has a kick like a mule".

Outside of the routine duties of their stay at Petawawa so far has been the marriage of Albert Hovan, of Bellevue, to Miss Mary Donkin, of Frank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Donkin. The newlyweds were the recipients of a beautiful silver tea set, a gift from the company of which the bridegroom is a member. The wedding took place at Pembroke. They are now residing there.

There are two or three exceptionally fine fishing streams in close proximity to the camp which is sorely trying the nerves of fisherman Burchell. His military duties keep him so busy that he is unable to cast a line to test his skill in the Ontario streams.

They sponsored was so bountifully fulfilled.

Let us all join, in any way we may, to bring back more of these good old days. In these distressful times we have need of all the goodwill that can be created and maintained.

Lions Will Canvass Town to Boost War Effort by sale of Savings Certificates

Town Has Been Divided Into Four Districts; Teams Appointed to Canvass Every Home.

CAMPAIGN CHAIRMAN

Fred Guerard

The campaign will last a month, but it is hoped to get the bulk of the work done within fifteen days. At the present time two workers at McGillivray and five at International subscribe regularly for war savings certificates. The canvassers will carry with them two sets of pledges. The first one will be signed by those people working in the mines or employed somewhere else, authorizing their employers to deduct a specific amount from their wages at specified times. The other pledge will concern those having bank accounts, authorizing the bank manager to deduct four dollars or a multiple thereof at specified times. In each case, when a certificate has been paid for the registered holder will receive his or her certificate direct from Ottawa.

Another card will be given those signing the pledges. It will enable them to either raise or reduce the amount pledged originally.

A thermometer has been built 100 inches in height and will be placed alongside the post-office. It

A Matter Of Survival

Napoleon is quoted as having said on one occasion that an army marches on its stomach which, being interpreted in simple terms, means that an army that is well fed is able to go places and do things. Conversely the army that is not well fed is likely to be defeated because of lack of stamina and vigor.

The truth of Napoleon's dictum is so universally recognized to-day that no country sends forth its uniformed men to battle without taking extraordinary measures to see that at all times the troops have ample supplies of well-cooked nourishing food. At no time in history have armies been as well fed as they are during the present war. The governments and the high commands of the combatant nations in the conflict now under way realize fully the effect of good nourishing food, not only upon the physical health of their fighting forces but upon their morale as well.

While the health and vigor of the troops is thus taken care of, the importance of bringing up and maintaining at the highest standard the health of the civilian population of the nation at war is apt to be regarded erroneously as a matter of secondary consideration.

In this age and generation it is accepted as axiomatic that, whether in uniform or not, the entire nation must bend all its energies to a vigorous prosecution of the war, which means that the worker in the factory, the yard and the mine turning out munitions, tanks, ships, planes, metals and all the impedimenta requisite to mechanized warfare; the farmer on the land producing foodstuffs to feed the combatants and civilian populations and the men at their desks directing these and other essential operations must be able to work at maximum efficiency.

The ability to work at maximum efficiency is dependent, not alone upon will power and good intention but these forces must be supplemented by sound, robust health, by physical well-being. The health of the people at home who are buttressing the efforts of the forces on the fighting front must be buoyant, not only that valuable hours and days be not lost through sickness or half hearted effort, but that supreme effort can be maintained at all times. This is highly important at the present stage of the war when an unimpeded flow of maximum quantities of supplies of all kinds is vital to speedy success.

Ample But Deficient

In this country there can be no complaint of a lack of ample food. There is sufficient in bulk of some commodities to supply the needs of all the Canadian armed forces, the British armed forces and both Canadian and British civilian populations. Reserved stocks of some commodities afford testimony to that fact. There is a question, however, whether the constituents of the food in common use ensure that degree of nutriment essential to maximum health and therefore maximum production.

A survey of the United States department of agriculture in 1935-37 revealed that one half the population was living on a poor diet, 35 per cent. on a fair diet and only 15 per cent. on a good diet, and by good diet is meant one containing all the essentials to maximum health. Since the Canadian dietary is very similar to that in the U.S.A. it is not probable that a similar survey in this country would yield comparable results.

The cause of this prevalence of diet deficiency is not attributable to poverty, for the survey showed that people who were spending as much as $50 per month for food were placed in the poor diet column.

According to Dr. Henry Borsook, professor of biochemistry of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, the situation is attributable to the general use of food stuffs which have lost some of the essential vitamins and minerals during highly refined processing in mills and factories. If that is so, and Dr. Borsook has plenty of support for his statements among scientific nutritional authorities, these elements so highly necessary to health must be restored and made available to all the people, and apparently it can be done at very little cost.

That Great Britain realizes the importance of providing the people with essential health giving minerals and vitamins in staple foods of universal consumption is evidenced by the new legislation requiring that vitamin B1 and calcium be added to all flour used in the manufacture of bread. This measure is regarded by Dr. Borsook as an "historic event in public health."

At The Source

This same authority declared in a recent news despatch that "the cheapest, easiest and most effective way of improving the nutrition of the nation is to add vitamins and minerals to such staple foods as flour, cornmeal, sugar and to those bottled and canned goods at the source. These must be added in measured amounts, under government regulation, and subject to government inspection."

Some remarkable results in the treatment of diseases due to deficient nutrition, by the use of pure chemicals are reported in the Reader's Digest by Paul de Kruif, an eminent bacteriologist. He visualizes the time is near at hand when it will be possible to make available to everybody "a vitamin supercharge that can be added to a cheap diet of sufficient calories. Two ounces of it per day, spread on a piece of bread will cost not more than twenty cents a pound. That is less than ten dollars a year for an abundance of the chemicals essential to human nutrition."

In time of peace health is vitally important. In wartime it is of still greater importance. In war, health spells survival.

Price Is High

"During a two-week visit to Tokyo, just concluded, I learned on good authority that Moscow is demanding a shockingly severe price for the pact of amity so earnestly desired by the Japanese," radios A. T. Steele from Shanghai to the Chicago Daily News. The Russians want back fishing and oil concessions Japan now enjoys and considers vital.

TWO WAYS TO PAY YOUR INCOME TAX

THE HARD WAY—

Forget about your sharply-increased wartime income tax until it becomes due on April 30, 1941. Then, no doubt, you will be rudely shocked by the size of the amount you will have to pay.

THE EASY WAY—

Plan now to take advantage of the government's offer to accept monthly instalments without interest charge. The offer is explained in a pamphlet, which shows you how to ease the burden of your income tax by spreading it over an extended period, permitting gradual adjustment of your spending and saving program. By doing this you not only simplify your own tax problem but you also help Canada's war effort by expediting collection of government revenue.

Saving Aluminum

Will Conserve Sufficient For Annual Production Of Planes

Through co-operation of manufacturers with G. C. Bateman, metals controller, it is hoped to conserve enough aluminum in Canada for the annual production of 3,000 airplanes, an official said.

It has not been necessary to issue a ban on non-essential use of aluminum since a voluntary agreement was reached with foil manufacturing companies to employ a substitute and it is in this particular cutting down on use of aluminum that the greatest saving is expected, the official said.

Some time ago Mr. Bateman called in representatives of foil companies and told them all available aluminum was needed for war purposes. They were asked to take the matter up with their customers and it was agreed a substitute would be used.

It is understood the conservation plan is well underway and instead of aluminum foil some manufacturers have decided to use waxed paper. Others are turning to a foil developed from a mixture of lead and tin.

Scientific Instruments

Britain Gains Supremacy In Making These Delicate Machines

A triumph over their German rivals is announced by Britain's scientific instrument makers.

Before the war Canada invited the world to compete for a surveying aneroid required by the Dominion's Geographical Survey Department. They asked for an accuracy of 0.02 inches of mercury. The Germans said it was impossible. They flatly refused to try.

Britain decided to tackle the job. Two years' special research have been put in on it and now the makers are able to disclose the fact that they have done 10 times better than they were asked to do. They have achieved not the 0.02 inches of accuracy, but 0.002, or 1-10th of the error allowed by the specification.

"We lost heavily on it," said a member of the firm, "but the research we did has been of immense value."

To-day Britain's supremacy in making scientific instruments is shown by the world demand for them. Among her wartime customers are Argentina, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and South Africa. When bombers are swung aboard ship at Montreal, their dashboards carry—among much else—temperature indicators, boost gauges, fuel pressure gauges, oil pump gauges, air-intake, thermometers and precision altimeters, all of them made in Great Britain.

The latest figures are eloquent of Britain's new supremacy. Before the war she was exporting about one third the quantity of scientific instruments sold by her German rivals. During the first nine months of the present year she sent overseas more than $900,000 worth, an actual increase of almost $100,000 over the first nine months of 1939.

SELECTED RECIPES

LEMON CRUM PIE

- 1 1/2 cup Kellogg's Rice Krispies
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoon cornstarch
- 2 eggs
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 recipe All-Bran pastry

Roll Rice Krispies into fine crumbs; add butter and boiling water. Mix sugar and corn starch; add well beaten egg yolks, lemon juice and rind. Combine the mixtures. Line a pie pan with All-Bran Pastry. Fill with mixture and bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 20 minutes or until filling is set and pastry brown. Cover with meringue made from two beaten egg whites and four tablespoons sugar. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) about 20 minutes.

Yield: One 8-inch pie.

TOMATO RAREBIT

- 1 1/2 lb Canadian Cheese
- 1 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups drained, canned tomatoes
- 1 egg
- 6 Holland Rusks

In the upper section of a double boiler put diced cheese and add mustard and pepper. When cheese is melted, add tomato pulp and salt to taste. Stir until smooth and creamy and serve on rusk. Six portions.

Silkworms Dinkle Raids

According to the Sheffield Weekly Telegraph silkworms on a silk farm owned by Lady Hart Dyke all go on strike during air raids. Whether it is the bombs or the sirens that annoy the worms nobody knows. But whenever there is an air raid near by the worms stop spinning and refuse to work until hours after the all-clear has sounded.

Life Plays Queer Jokes

Many People Cheated Out Of Things They Planned For

Life can play queer jokes on people sometimes.

In a Western city there was a grocer who worked very hard and saved his money religiously, so that his old age would be provided for.

For fifty years he stuck to his grocery store. He worked and saved too hard to have very much fun, but he was looking forward to the day when he could retire. Then he would have his fun. He would have money and leisure, and he would make up for the years of hard work.

Well, he finally retired money in the bank, an assured income, a nice home, everything he needed. "Now," he told his friends, "I am going to enjoy life."

And just 24 hours after he retired he dropped dead.

If a novelist put that in a book we wouldn't believe it. We would say that things don't really happen that way, and we would accuse the novelist of straining too hard for an ironic effect.

But life takes queer twists that are not permitted to good fiction. If all happened, precisely as described here; and all we can do admit that there are times when wisdom and prudence are horribly confounded.

As a matter of fact, this sort of thing happens fairly often in a little different way. Not many people who have prepared for a career and leisurely old age die just as they begin to taste their reward of course; but they get cheated out of their dues just the same. They find that leisure, after a lifetime of hard work, is boredom. They find that they have forgotten how to play. They find that the empty hours are depressing because they do not know what to do with them. They find themselves feeling that they had been put upon the shelf, and they grow ten years older in twelve months.

Air Training Accidents

Fewer Fatal Accidents Have Occurred Than Was Expected

The percentage of flying accidents, having regard to the amount of flying done in schools of the British Commonwealth air training plan in Canada, is lower than was expected, the air ministry said in a statement issued recently.

Since the plan started operating there was up to late December 29 fatal flying accidents, and in the same period 168,050 flying hours were put in. The statement gave a lengthy outline of the rules and precautions taken in the Royal Canadian Air Force to prevent accidents, but said "Canada will not carry out the greatest air training plan ever conceived without meeting with some percentage of accidents."

The Gosport system is used by the R.C.A.F. It embodies all the experience of training in the last war and in the intervening years. It has been adopted throughout the British empire and in other countries, and formed the basis of the United States training system.

Defended Canada

Argument Between Dr. Cora Hind And General Jan Smuts

Mrs. A. Campbell Mackie, in an address to the Women's Historical Society at Toronto, told of being entertained a few years ago at a luncheon in Cape Town by an argument between Dr. E. Cora Hind, of the Winnipeg Free Press, and General Jan Smuts, prime minister of South Africa. Dr. Hind was on a world tour at the time.

The argument was regarding the comparative merits of Canadian and South African wheat and was very enlightening, according to Mrs. Mackie.

Pleads Not Guilty

In his latest speech, Hitler said: "I have no responsibility for the world war." This has a ring as though he were preparing his defence for the trial he fears is becoming imminent. Prague, Warsaw, or London would all be fitting places in which to hold it.

It is said that Roger Bacon (1214-1294) was the first to realize that glass would bend light rays. The invention of spectacles is supposed to have taken place in Italy around 1285.

Of Interest To-day

Ancient Warriors Had Underground Shelter As Protection Against Cold

In the "Anabasis"—the account of the adventurous retreat of the ten thousand Greeks from Babylon to the Black Sea—there is a description of an underground shelter which has some points of interest to-day. It was more than two thousand years ago, civilization had not yet invented bombing from the air, but as a rough defence against one of man's oldest enemies, extreme cold, the shelter appears to have been reasonably good.

Xenophon is telling how his men, after long and painful marches through snow-storms in the Armenian Highlands, found welcome relief in a village among the mountains. The dwellings, he tells us, were excavated underground with an entrance like a well, widening below. There were also subterranean passages for the cattle and ladders for the inhabitants to descend by. "As may be imagined, Xenophon lingers with evident delight over his memories of those warm days of rest and safety which he and his soldiers spent after a period of ravenous hunger and frost-bite among snowstorms. The atmosphere must have been certainly warm, and there was plenty of food ready at hand. Goats, sheep, cattle, even birds were there, fed through the winter, with a hoard of wheat and vegetables, and the cultured Greek author mentions a new pleasure he discovered—drinking Armenian beer through straws inserted in the liquid.—Manchester Guardian Weekly.

The Bishop's Preference

The former Bishop of London was once ordered by his physician to spend the winter in Algiers. The Bishop said it was impossible, he had so many engagements. "Well, my Lord Bishop," said the specialist, "it either means Algiers or heaven." "In that case," said the Bishop, "I'll go to Algiers."

Bombing In Britain Has Little Effect On Output Of Milk

Reports from dairying areas in the United Kingdom indicate that the disturbance of explosions and machine gun fire appear to have little or no effect on the output of the milking herds. Many of the rural areas have been severely bombed during the recent intensive raids but despite this the mortality in farm live stock has not been as heavy as might be expected. Cattle have been the principal victims, followed by sheep, chiefly because of their tendency to herd together. Well down in the list of farm casualties are horses and pigs.

American Papers Praise Tone Of The Speech By Roosevelt

New York. The British Broadcasting Corporation was reported by the Columbia Broadcasting System to be broadcasting frequent 15-minute German-language summaries of President Roosevelt's speech on American security.

The New York Herald Tribune, saying President's Roosevelt's address Sunday night constituted a "high call to action" to the United States to obtain "more of everything," termed the address "one of the greatest efforts of his career."

"This newspaper is convinced that if the president can implement leadership of this quality with the practical steps necessary to translate it into action, he will end the people of the United States unanimous in support of every step he may take to fulfill these great ends," it added.

The New York Times said the president, by announcing that he regards the anti-aggression pact signed by Germany, Italy and Japan as directed against the United States, "has put all three countries on notice that he regards them as potential if not actual enemies."

"It added: 'Such a notice will be futile unless it is supported by an unmistakable acceleration of our own defence program. This has now become the nation's central task.'"

Washington Post—"The burden of Mr. Roosevelt's address was a total mobilization call upon our productive resources. . . . There are those who would have welcomed a specific war-time plan for, say, shipbuilding. No doubt, however, act will follow quickly upon words. For in no previous speech has the president made such a clear and unequivocal identification between our national interest and a Nazi defeat."

Boston Post—"The president's address was as frank and effective a delineation of national policy as that of Lincoln's first inaugural speech. . . . Only one point was not carried far enough. The president declared that no expeditionary force will be sent overseas. As he uttered these words, many of us wondered if that includes the navy. Is it possible that our navy might be used for convoys and the like, and actual defence of the British Isles?"

Worcester (Mass.) Telegram—"The president's address was a clear defence of the axis powers—a defence which will thrill Americans and which will give heart to the British and those who are fighting on their side. The United States is going to increase its aid to Britain, and nothing that any totalitarian dictator says or can say will swerve the United States from its course."

Newark, N.J., Star-Leader—"The president weighed the recent intimidating utterances of the axis spokesmen and told them off in vigorous style."

Canada's War Effort

Australian Newspapers Have Praise For Progress Made Here

Sydney. — Australian newspapers continue to give attention to the development of Canada's war effort.

The Morning Herald, in addition to an editorial warmly commending Canada's announcement of formation of an army corps in Britain, has a special article detailing extensions of munitions, manufacturing and aircraft building facilities.

Its editorial says that Canada has made striking progress in providing men, munitions, equipment, ships and aircraft to the limits of her productive capacity and that Canada's progress is an inspiration to Australia, a spur to the United States, and a solid encouragement to Britain that must raise a new cloud on Hitler's horizon.

Dutch Ships

London. — A Netherlands naval officer announced that several unfinished Netherlands warships brought across the channel when the Germans invaded the Low Countries last May are being completed in British harbours and would soon go into action.

Trans-Canada Highway

Toronto. — Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario highways minister, announces the last uncompleted link in the Trans-Canada highway, a 150-mile stretch between Hearst and Geraldton in Northern Ontario, will be open for traffic next autumn.

Another Canadian Troop Contingent Has Reached Britain Safely

Somewhere in England.—The eighth large contingent of Canadian troops to cross the Atlantic since the war started, bringing the 2nd division to full strength, stretched their land legs in camp after landing from great grey troopships which brought them safely, if turbulently, from Canada.

None of the reputed scores of submarines which Germany boasts are "driving Allied shipping off the high seas," ventured near the convoy. In the words of one arriving officer, "seasickness was our only worry." Mountainous seas were encountered more than halfway across the Atlantic.

All eight contingents of Canadians have made the crossing without serious incident. Like those that went before, the Eighth was guarded by the might of the navy and the Royal Air Force.

Expressing his pleasure at the arrival of the second division units, Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlum said:

"The division is at last complete. I am delighted to learn how far advanced the training of the new units progressed in Canada. The work there has been notable and the latest arrival will fit admirably into the framework of the division."

At a western port where the troops disembarked they were welcomed by representatives of Defence Minister J. L. Ralston, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian corps commander, Canadian military headquarters and the dominion office.

A score of nursing sisters were among medical unit reinforcements. Lieut. L. G. Kempton of Weyburn, Sask., heard about the menu as he

War Productions

Canada Faces A Year Of Heavy Output Of Materials

Toronto. — Canada faces a year of peak production in war materials, more severe taxation, increasing restrictions and problems of supply for 1941, according to a year-end survey of the views of 50 Canadian business leaders conducted by The Financial Post.

Industries engaged directly in the Empire's war effort by making munitions and equipment and those indirectly engaged by maintaining vital war credits with exports, to United States will have the right-of-way the survey states.

"Their needs will come first in labor, raw material, power and transportation," it continues. "If there is not enough steel or power for both war equipment and ordinary civilian goods, then ordinary civilian goods and the buying of these goods will be restricted. We have had a taste of such restriction in 1940. Business men look for more of it in 1941."

Further restrictions on international trade are also anticipated. The survey quotes H. J. Carmichael of Oshawa, vice-president and general manager of General Motors Ltd., as saying the company's payroll of 10,400 will be increased by 3,000 to 4,000 in the next year.

Garrison Smith, president of Imperial Oil Ltd., said his company plans an extensive drilling program for 1941 in Turner Valley.

Aid From Canada

Says Canada Becoming Base Of Supply For Britain

London. — Hon. C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of munitions and supply, said Canada is becoming "the principal supply base for Great Britain," the British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

Mr. Howe, now visiting the United Kingdom, said "foodstuffs, ammunition, guns, aircraft, motorized equipment and a great variety of other equipment are pouring across the Atlantic in a growing stream to aid the mother country," the BBC reported.

The BBC said Mr. Howe presented these facts regarding Canada's war effort to his British audience:

"Orders placed for Canada's account alone total more than $380,000,000; fifty-five main airports have been completed and next year Canada expects to be turning out 12 planes a day."

"The new Canadian gun plant will be one of the largest and most modern in the British Empire and another plant is being built for the manufacture of secret war devices."

"The Canadian navy, which at the outbreak of war consisted of only 15 vessels now has 120 naval craft and within a year a further 100 vessels will be added."

French Town Fined

Vichy, France. — The newspaper Depeche Des Hours said the population of Orleans, in German occupied France, had been fined 1,000,000 francs after a German army telephone wire was cut.

CHURCHILL SETS EMPIRE EXAMPLE OF GRIM DETERMINATION

Premier Winston Churchill, speaking in the House of Commons recently, declared the efforts of the British forces in Africa constituted a victory of the first order, and had removed anxieties of three months ago. He warned the House that it was too soon for victory celebrations.

Production Of War Weapons

It Speeded Up Would End The War Quickly

New York.—Arthur Purvis, director-general of the British purchasing commission in the United States, said upon arrival from Britain that he is "more than ever confirmed" in the belief that the way to end the war quickly is for the United Kingdom and the United States to "produce weapons of war rapidly and in great quantities."

Mr. Purvis, who flew the Atlantic in a clipper from Lisbon, has been conferring with the British government on all matters relating to supplies. During his stay in Britain the King honored him with an appointment to the privy council.

"The increasing knowledge obtained through actual combat operations is being incorporated in American airplane production to our advantage," Mr. Purvis said. "The American plane, always a first-class fighter, is excellent."

U.S. Ambassador To France

Takes Personal Note From President Roosevelt To Marshal Petain

Norfolk, Va.—Admiral William D. Leahy, new ambassador to France sailed with Mrs. Leahy for Lisbon, Portugal, aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa.

Admiral Leahy carries a personal note from President Roosevelt to Marshal Henri Petain, chief of the Vichy government, in which the president said, he explained, that Leahy is an old friend and one whom he felt confident would be acceptable to the Marshal.

Ontario Legislature

Toronto.—The Ontario legislature has been summoned into session on Feb. 19. It is announced in the current edition of the Ontario Gazette. The date is set a little later than in past years so members of the Ontario government may attend the Dominion-provincial conference on the St. Louis report during January.

Award For Canadian Officer

Flyer From Yorkton Wins The Distinguished Flying Cross

London.—Two officers of the Royal Air Force's Canadian squadron were awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross in recognition of gallantry displayed in flying operations against the enemy.

Acting Squadron Leader Douglas Bader, who was given the Distinguished Service Order last September, and Flying Officer H. N. Tamblin received the awards. Bader, an Englishman who persuaded the authorities to accept him for service after he lost both legs in an accident, uses artificial limbs. Tamblin is from Yorkton, Sask.

The air ministry citation said Bader "has continued to lead his squadron and wing with the utmost gallantry on all occasions. He now has destroyed a total of 10 hostile aircraft and damaged several more."

Of Tamblin the air ministry said: "He has shown the greatest keenness to engage the enemy and destroyed at least five of their aircraft. He has set a splendid example for the other members of his action."

Tamblin's father is N. Tamblin of Yorkton.

Norwegian Judges Resign

Protest Against Interference In Their Duties By The Nazis

London.—Judges of the Norwegian supreme court have "unanimously resigned" in protest against interference in their duties by the Nazis, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported, quoting the Stockholm correspondent of the Free French news agency.

"The Nazi commissioner told the judges that they had no right to question the legality of the decrees of the puppet government of Norway," the BBC said. "But the judges replied that they considered it their duty to decide whether the decrees promulgated by this government were in conformity with international law."

The BBC added that in the past few days members of the police force at Oslo, Norwegian capital, have been arrested "on the pretext that they had failed to deal firmly with street demonstrations."

To Help Irish

Rome Radio Has Ordered Full Axis Support To Eire

London.—The Dublin correspondent of the London Daily Mail reported that the Rome radio had ordered full axis support to Eire in the event of "British aggression."

"Should the Irish people be forced to defend themselves against British aggression they can be assured of the full and whole-hearted help of the axis powers. Besides this military help the whole Catholic world would be on their side."

Nazi Military Activity In Rumania Causes Tension In Balkans

Budapest.—Concentration of Russian forces along the Rumanian frontier was reported under way as Germany poured the initial units of 300,000 fresh troops into Rumania and ordered a speed-up in the Balkan kingdom's production of war materials.

A spurt of diplomatic activity in southeastern European capitals accompanied this military activity, creating a fresh state of tension in the Balkans.

The Russian concentrations were reported along the Prut river, which became the dividing line between Rumania and Soviet Russia after Moscow obtained Bessarabia and northern Bucovina from the Bucharest government by ultimatum June 27.

Under the German-ordered speed-up in Rumania's war production, two large Rumanian industrial plants will be devoted to the manufacture of warplanes for Germany, diplomatic despatches from Bucharest said. A submarine building yard already in operation at Galati, these advices added, has been ordered to increase its operation.

This German military activity coincided with the shift of Baron Manfred von Killinger, Nazi minister to Slovakia, to the same post at Bucharest. He is prepared to rule Rumania as Hitler's virtual Gauleiter (district-leader), informed sources asserted. He formerly was consul general in San Francisco.

Diplomatic reports from Bucharest said the Germans were prepared to take over complete control of Rumania's civil administration. Herebefore the approximately 100,000 soldiers already in Rumania have been reputedly used only to guard vital sources of oil supply and to train the Rumanian army in modern methods of warfare.

On the diplomatic front, the Turkish minister to Bucharest, Hamdullah Submi Tanriover, arrived in Ankara to confer with Turkish officials. Simultaneously, some members of the Soviet legation in Bucharest prepared to leave for Moscow.

Russian Minister Lavrentiev was said in reports from the Rumanian capital to have been engaged in important conferences there for the past week.

Lethbridge Gains Second Win Over Miners

Pietroszko And Tennant Pace Respective Teams With Three Goals Each.

Condition and a smooth passing power attack when having a man advantage spelled victory for Lethbridge juniors at the arena on Thursday evening as they defeated Coleman 6-5 and kept their undefeated record in C.N.P. league hockey intact. It was their second straight win over the locals.

Coleman led 2-0 at the end of the first period, trailed 2-4 at the end of the second, evened the score at 4-4 within four minutes of play in the final canto but failed to stand the pace and Lethbridge's fine condition aided them in making fast breakaways for two more goals. Stewart Murdoch got Coleman's fifth goal. 300 were in attendance.

Pietroszky with three and Kwasnie and Murdoch with one each were Coleman's marksmen. Jock Tennant with three, Negrello with two and Speaker with one goal were the visitors' marksmen.

Penalties cost Coleman the game. Four of their opponents' six goals were scored when Coleman had a man in the penalty box. Miners had five penalties to Lethbridge's three, Coleman being able only once to score with a man advantage.

Condition however was the main factor of the game. The locals have had only two practices and two league games while the Lethbridge youngsters have been on the ice for the past two months.

NINE TURKEYS WON AT LEGION CONTEST

Officials of the local branch of the Canadian Legion sponsored contests in darts during the Christmas holidays and gave turkeys as prizes. The best score among each 20 contestants was a turkey. Nine turkeys have been won, the sharpshooters being Wm. Dunkley, Harry Gee, Steve Zak, Oliver Barringham, Mrs. D. Gentile, George Sisk, Jack Poxton, Herb Snowdon, Wm. Martland. One other contest is still incomplete.

Further competitions will be held during the week, turkeys still being given as prizes.

CAROLLERS WERE OUT ON CHRISTMAS EVE

The old-time carols brought the spirit of Christmas to many homes on Christmas eve when the Salvation Army carollers sang in various parts of the town. Ideal weather favored their efforts, and they were kindly received by the people at whose places they sang.

SHOULD BE THANKFUL

In the opinion of the Attorney-General's Department of our fair province, it is not an offence against the Defence of Canada Regulations for school children not to salute the flag—the Union Jack. It may not be an offence, but any child living in a country such as Canada, free from Dictatorship, should be fully well glad to raise his hand to his forehead every morning in gratitude, when standing before that noble emblem of freedom.—Drumheller Mail.

Those who refuse to salute the Union Jack at Coleman public schools, just don't go to school now, since the Coleman School Board has decreed that every pupil MUST salute the flag when this ceremony is called for. If the children refuse, they are sent home for this disobedience. If all Alberta schools followed this example the younger generation would soon learn to honor the Flag, or contrarily suffer in lack of education for their stubbornness in refusing to salute.—Drumheller Mail.

FOUND GUILTY OF OPERATING GAMBLING DEN

Appearing before Fred Antrabus, J.P. in police court Monday afternoon, a local man was found guilty of operating a gambling house and fined $25.00 and costs. Twelve frequenters arrested were each fined $5.00 and costs.

CORRECTION

In last week's issue it was incorrectly stated that $7.00 was the net profit derived from the raffle of the Canadian Legion Cigarette Fund plane. $26.10 was derived from the plane, which was won by Wm. Fraser, sr.

The Sirois Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations made a serious blunder when they recommended the Dominion Government to withdraw their activities in connection with experimental farms and stations, or for handing them over to the provinces. This would be extremely retrograde, and if they will make further inquiry they would be astonished at the wealth that has been created throughout Canada as the result of the work of these institutions, staffed by hardworking, loyal and capable men. The knowledge gained and to be gained must be Dominion in scope and in the last thirty years has given wonderful returns.—The Pincher Creek Echo.

THEY APPRECIATE THE JOURNAL

From The Garrison Library, Mewata Park, Calgary, comes this letter of appreciation:

The men of this garrison wish to express their appreciation for the pleasure and comfort afforded to them by having The Journal in our reading files during the past year. We wish you a very merry Christmas and Happy New Year and express to you our kindest personal regards.

Yours sincerely,
CORPRAL ALEX. G. LOW,

Garrison Librarian.

From Vancouver Island Union Library:

Since the Southern Alberta Regiment has been quartered at the camp on the outskirts of Nanaimo, a number of the men have come to the library and asked if we had the Coleman Journal. If you would care to send us copies of your paper as long as the men are in camp here, I am sure they would be very much appreciated.

Yours very truly,
MARJORIE H. LARGUE,
Librarian.

● Every parent has watched with keen interest the advancement and development of the five pretty little girls, now world famous as the "Dionne Quintuplets." The best scientific methods have been used in their rearing. Many have been the speculations and conjectures as to their future. But they are growing up—

They are now getting their first taste of schooling in the three R's. It was here Remington Rand was called in to supply the important tool in their education—the typewriter. Naturally we are proud to be so honored by the Guardians in whose charge "the five most famous girls in the world" will prepare to be "ladies."

Educators, engineers and technicians got busy. The Remington Noiseless Portable was agreed upon as the perfect machine for these fifty famous fingers and

See it at Your Dealer's

Dr. Dafoe concurred, (and he knows for his office in Calander is exclusively equipped with two Remington Noiseless Typewriters). Then, too, these machines require less effort for tiny tots to operate.

But that's not the whole story—while the Remington Noiseless Portable's feather touch requires less effort to operate, and QUIET nerve soothing typing makes progress easier, another most important step was yet to be taken—a new Keyboard that would—be standard—do languages—mathematics—all other types of school work—and prepare the child to use any standard typewriter in the future. This keyboard has now been devised, "The 5-purpose Quintuplet Educational Keyboard." It is ready not only for the Dionne Quintuplets—but also for YOUR CHILDREN.

A B C Develops D E F Quintuplet Educational Keyboard

● Most children advance more rapidly in school and classroom work with the aid of a typewriter. This was proven in the report of a dramatic 2-year series of important and revealing scientific tests, conducted by two of the nation's most prominent educators.

To meet the need for improvement in such an important educational tool, Remington Rand has developed and perfected the 5-purpose Quintuplet Educational Keyboard, that is first—standard, second—adaptable to languages, third—will do all types of school work, fourth—do mathematics, fifth—prepare children to use any standard typewriter.

Remember, children learning to type write on the new Quintuplet Educational keyboard will be able to type at any time in the future on any standard keyboard! Be sure to see it at your dealer's or at your local Remington Rand office.

Severe Penalties Will be Meted Out to Guilty Parties

Damage to McGillivray Creek Coal Co. Hoisting Machinery Causes Tie-Up of Workmen—Police Investigating.

Serious damage has been caused recently to the hoisting machinery and electric wiring at the hoist house near the McGillivray prospect, which had delayed work at the mines when men went on shift. This is not the first time that damage has been done, and indications are that it is the work of older boys or young men.

There is a very serious penalty attaching to anyone found guilty, particularly in times of war, as damage of this nature may be classed as sabotage, and may incur heavy sentence as a criminal offence.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are following up an investigation to try and bring to court the guilty parties. Further, anyone found trespassing on the properties of International or McGillivray Coal Companies will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Parents or guardians should take particular care to warn the younger people of the seriousness of offences which result in damage to property. Coleman has had considerable trouble from this source, particularly during the past year, as West Coleman school suffered wanton damage at the hands of hoodlums.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Mary, Princess Royal, thanked American girl scouts for Christmas gifts and for an ambulance they presented to the girl guides of Britain.

Mrs. Emily Bailey, 100-year-old native of England, who came to Victoria 26 years ago from Portage la Prairie, Man., died at Victoria, B.C. Internment camps at Bombay were reported to have been prepared in India for at least 20,000 Italian prisoners captured in Egypt.

Food Minister Lord Woolton accepted part of a fleet of 100 mobile canteens presented by the American Allied Relief Fund.

Col. Sir Reginald Hugh Dorman-Smith, who was minister of agriculture at the outbreak of war, was appointed governor of Burma by the King.

Frederick Snyder, lecturer and traveller, said in a speech that the United States would experience a series of earthquakes in 1941 because of "planetary action."

In addition to war guests from the United Kingdom, Australia has found homes for 3,156 Britishers evacuated from Hong Kong and Shanghai.

Consumption of tin in the United Kingdom totalled 18,496 tons in the first seven months of 1940, against 12,652 tons in the corresponding period of 1939, an increase of 46 per cent.

Ottawa Mint Busy

Heavy Demand For Coinage Is Greatly Increased In Wartime

Authorities at the Royal Canadian Mint, well on the way to providing all the coinage needed in wartime Canada, relaxed as they surveyed a daily time table shortened by eight hours.

Around the start of the war the mint went on a feverish 24-hour, three-shift schedule in an effort to keep pace with the demand. Recently the situation eased and the schedule was cut to 16 hours.

But the finance department isn't satisfied yet and one spokesman predicted the mint soon will be operating on a straight eight-hour day. "We've got the situation pretty well in hand at last," he said. "For a while we were pretty well swamped but we made sure it wouldn't happen again."

Late in 1939 and early in 1940, he said, the demand was so great the mint actually fell behind in its schedule. Warned by this example, officials made sure no such contingency would occur again by enlarging their staff and taking other special precautions. The spokesman attributed the sudden demand for coinage shortly after the war began to one prime cause—wartime prosperity.

"When everybody has more money, the demand for more coinage is naturally greater," he said. "The more people spend the more work they provide for us."

Heavy Production

United States Industries Are Put Into High Gear

The arming of United States called on the automobile industry to swing into test production of parts for a powerful fleet of long-range bombers.

An estimated $20,000,000 worth of initial "educational orders," decided upon by the war department and defence commission, was expected to familiarize automobile plant managers with the manufacture of the intricate parts they will be called upon to supply.

As presently visualized, motor car plants will be geared to help produce annually some 3,600 two and four-motor bombers, costing at current prices nearly $1,000,000,000.

Possibly 15 months, by official estimates, will be required to put into full operation the plan to employ the automobile industry to supplement the conventional aircraft factories in expanding the output of planes for the United States and Great Britain.

Proud Of His Accent

J. B. Priestley, whose Sunday broadcast "postscripts" have been so popular, is an old Bradford boy who never went to a public school; but he did go to Cambridge after the last war. Even Cambridge failed to eradicate his Yorkshire accent, once, according to Mr. Priestley, a liability, but now an asset. He is as proud of his accent as any Scotsman.

An average of one person has been accidentally killed every 16 minutes for the past 10 years.

If you would have a good servant, select neither a friend nor a relative.

Keep Down Production Costs

Effective Means Of Attaining This On The Farm

Under war-time conditions it is more than ever advisable that farmers do everything possible to try and keep down their costs of production, observes H. D. Mitchell, Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Three of the most effective means of attaining this include the following: (1) Production of the heaviest possible yields through the use of the highest quality seed of disease-resistant varieties which have proved the best suited to the locality; thorough preparation of the seed bed as well as persistent control of weeds, insects and plant diseases to assist in contributing to higher yields; (2) The use of modern labour-saving farm machinery and equipment to help increase the output and at the same time reduce costs. Rubber tired machinery speeds up operations and enables more land to be farmed. Co-operative ownership of expensive machinery is one way of keeping down costs; (3) Increasing the size of the farm or renting additional land. According to the latest census the average farm in Eastern Canada had only 41.3 acres of land in crop, of which 48.8 per cent was in hay. A larger cultivated acreage would mean little or no increase in the amount of machinery and equipment used, and the cost of production would be reduced because the overhead costs would be spread over a larger number of acres. The acreage farmed should be sufficient to utilize the available labour and equipment to the fullest capacity in order to keep production costs at a minimum.

To Protect Pilots

Bullet Proof Armor To Be Installed In Cockpit

Pilots of large British and United States bombing planes will soon be protected by new bullet-proof cockpit armor being rushed by three plants.

The armor will give pilots more adequate protection. It conforms to the general shape of the body and will provide protection from the head to below the knees. Its cow-like top and extra width at the elbows help increase its effectiveness. The armor weighs about 120 pounds and will provide adequate resistance against machine-gun bullets.

A company official said the new armor would protect a flier against enemy planes diving without warning from the rear.

EASY-TO-MAKE PANELED APRON

By Anne Adams

Kitchen duty is really fun around holiday time, especially if you're wearing an Anne Adams apron like Pattern 4394! It's dainty, efficient and marvellously quick to make. You might accent the becoming front panel by either using contrast, as in Apron B or by trimming its full length with ruffling or tie-back, as shown in Apron A. You've a choice of two becoming neckline versions. The lower waistline seams at the sides give smooth fit and allow for extra skirt fullness. Notice the absence of side seams in the skirt, the line treatment of each side-front bodice with the straps, and the one-piece cut of the back top—all time-saving details!

Pattern 4394 is available in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small view, View A, takes 2 yards 35 inch fabric and 2 1/2 yards ruffling; view B, 1 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1 1/2 yards of contrast. Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg, Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Flies With Convoy

Former British Air Minister Enjoys Piloting R.A.F. Planes

Lord Londonderry, former British Air Minister and an amateur pilot, takes a hand occasionally at piloting Royal Air Force planes on Atlantic convoy patrols.

As an honorary commodore of the Ulster bombing squadron, he is permitted to act as a relief pilot, sometimes for as long as two-and-a-half hours.

"It's great fun to go out with them," he says. "There's nothing I like better than to be up and out with the boys of the squadron." Lord Londonderry is 62.

Bread is now standardized to four sizes for sale in England.

C.P.R. BOMBER FUND

John Lee, works manager of Weston Shops, with his shops' committee in the Canadian Pacific Railway's Golden Bomber Fund campaign, examines the hoard of cash and keepsakes contributed by shops men and their families to swell the western lines quota of the $100,000 being collected by the C.P.R. to buy a bombing plane as a gift to the Canadian overseas forces. To date the shops have contributed 172 pieces of gold yet to be valued and nearly $1,000 in money. Left to right are: W. Worboys, G. McClements, John Lee, David Peddie, L. O. Dwyer and F. I. Smith.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 5

JESUS AND HUMAN AFFLICTION

Golden text: "We have not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities. Hebrews 4:15. Lesson: Luke 13. Devotional reading: Exodus 3:7-12.

Explanations and Comments

Physical Suffering No Proof of Personal Sin. Luke 13:1-5. We are told that Philo, a contemporary of Pilate, speaks of the latter's repeated massacre of persons uncondemned and of his insatiable ferocity, but nothing is known in regard to the "certain Galileans" who perished at Pilate's orders of which our text speaks. Since their blood was mingled with their sacrifices, they evidently were killed while they were offering animals for sacrificial offerings. Did they think that the fate of these men proved them to have been greater sinners than other Galileans? Jesus questioned the men who told him about their fate, and then he cried, "I tell you, Nay." Such an assumption was utterly false. Instead of passing judgment upon the unfortunates they should themselves repent lest they perish, Jesus warned.

"The tower in Siloam (probably by the pool of Siloam, or Bethesda) had fallen and killed eighteen men, Jesus then said, and asked his listeners if they thought those men were greater sinners than all the men in Jerusalem. 'I tell you, Nay,' again Jesus cried: 'but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.'"

Insurance companies call natural catastrophes which are beyond man's control, such as are caused by lightning, hurricane, tidal wave, earthquakes, "acts of God," but such catastrophes are not sent by God in punishment, they do not fall upon people because they are wicked. Yet in the spiritual realm there is an exact relationship between what man is and what happens to him in that realm, for the wages of sin is death. "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."

Jesus' Sympathy for Human Suffering. Luke 13:10-17. As Jesus was teaching in a synagogue on the Sabbath he saw a woman bent over, unable to raise herself upright. Though her case was of longstanding, when Jesus said to her, "Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity" and laid his hands upon her, she immediately straightened up and burst forth in words of praise to God.

Cannot Be Beaten

No One Doubts The Ultimate Outcome Of The War

I am continually asked if I think we can win through. A great many problems have to be overcome. A great many dangers have to be faced. Suffering and tribulation are certain, but I see the situation in sharp contrast to those nights in early June, when it was touch and go whether we lost the whole of the B.E.F., when even friendly observers doubted our ability to stand the strain. Contrary to the gloomy anticipations and fears of those days, the Battle of Britain is not proceeding according to Hitler's plan, and given the continuance of unity and endurance, we cannot be beaten.—A. V. Alexander in "United Empire."

One Explanation

A man is nine times as likely to be killed by lightning as a woman. That's a huge discrepancy, the best explanation of which is that there are usually many more men than women out of doors when a thunderstorm cracks loose.

According to a survey recently taken, drivers around 40 years of age have the lowest accident rate.

Bren Gun Patrols

Watch Air Raiders Over Wide Area On England's Coast

Co-operating with motorcycle, tank and bicycle squads, Bren gun carriers manned by troops from Western Canada weave a maze of patrols over the forward defence positions on the English coast.

It is one of the most active and vital duties carried out by the battalions from the Dominion, now stationed along the sea. The heavily-armed carriers can manoeuvre anywhere in the district and race over rough, muddy roads in this basic patrol to guard against the possibility that enemy parachute troops might drop within the Canadian lines.

Ride with the carriers on a lonely midnight patrol in the moonlight and get an insight into the work of these sharp-eyed men from the west. Bundle into the warmest clothing to meet the wind whipping in from the water which stretches towards enemy-held territory.

The carrier is in charge of Cpl. C. H. McMurdo of Vancouver, with Pte. Fred Schultz at the guns and Pte. Bob Webber in the driver's seat.

From a post by the sea the carrier speeds back into the countryside at anywhere from 30 to 60 miles an hour. It has a bobbing motion like a rocking chair but is the most comfortable riding of all armored fighting vehicles.

The crew keeps a watch on the whole area. Every 30 minutes or so the carrier stops at an outpost or lookout. The men listen for airplanes, bomb explosions or any sign of enemy action. The Bren gun and other weapons are ready.

At one stop a Nazi aircraft can be heard overhead and Pte. Schultz says: "If he just comes down a few thousand feet more he'll get a burst from this," pointing to the Bren. But the Hun says out of range. Later another plane zooms across the area, very low. That's one of ours," says Pte. Webber. "I can tell by the motor." The Royal Air Force circles on the wings, visible in the moonlight, confirm his observation. It is one of the night fighters preparing to attack enemy bombers.

Tragic For Italy

But World Tempted To Laugh At Mussolini's War Efforts

If it weren't so criminally tragic for the people of Italy, Mussolini's frenzied efforts to pull the fat from the fire in Albania and Africa and to keep his Caesar's seat at home would be the most comical of sights to a world which has forgotten laughter.

Added to heading routes in Albania and Egypt and to reports of Nazi troops massing at the border are the Duce's decrees that death will be the penalty for "the most severe cases" of food hoarding. Likewise, profiteering will be severely punished. Furthermore, all Italians are ordered to be of unwavering morale, or else.

The plot comes a little clearer with these additions to the Fascist canon. After all anti-Fascists have been purged from the ancient domain of the Caesars, the Duce will take the spotlight in a deathless tragedy-comedy entitled "Alone in Italy." Detroit Free Press.

Brave Children

Crippled Children Sing Songs While Being Rescued From Bombed Hospital

Twenty-two crippled children, between the ages of 10 and eight, inmates of a southeastern English home, sang songs for nearly half an hour though big blocks of concrete and brickwork had fallen beside their beds and water poured from broken pipes above. Seven were slightly injured. A bomb crashed on to the building during the night, demolishing the domestic quarters and part of the superintendent's flat, and two of the staff were killed. The children were sleeping in a sand-bagged ground-floor room, and all the time they were waiting for outside help there was danger that the building might collapse.—London Times.

Curbing Speedsters

Panama has a sure method of curbing speeding. Highways are divided into 10-mile districts. As you enter the highway you are given a time card. At a control station 10 or 20 miles beyond you submit the card. Just a glance at the officers' watch and—if you made the distance too fast—you're pinched. The Sunday Globe, Boston.

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Rheumatic heart disease, the result of rheumatic fever, tops all other illnesses as the cause of death among children of school age. Many small children suffer from "growing pains" and many pay dearly for it in later life. Growing pains are frequently due to unrecognized rheumatic fever.

Many youngsters, whose parents neglect these signs, grow up to suffer or die from resultant but unsuspected, heart affection. Growing pains, therefore, should always be given immediate medical attention.

Attacks of rheumatic fever are easily recognized. The most striking symptoms, usually appearing after a sore throat or tonsillitis, are: pain, stiffness, swelling in the joints and muscles with the pain travelling from joint to joint.

But the heart condition may come on without the foregoing marked symptoms. The first signs of heart trouble may be: rapid heart beat, slight fever, pallor, loss of appetite, weight and vigor. Along with these signs there may be fleeting muscular aches.

Three-quarters of those having rheumatic fever are between the ages of five and thirty. The most of these are between the ages of ten and fifteen. The most dangerous feature of rheumatic fever is that, if not treated promptly, it does permanent injury to young hearts.

An attack of rheumatic fever may last for many months; one attack predisposes the patient to future attacks, often brought on by a grippé, colds, sore throat and respiratory troubles.

One thing is essential in the care of rheumatic fever. For the sake of his future health, the patient must stay in bed under the doctor's care until long after all fever and pain have disappeared. No matter how well the patient may feel or look he is not safe if he leaves his bed too soon. Unless he follows these directions he is likely to convalesce with a crippled heart.

It Happened In Paris

English Noblewoman Tells How Goering Snatched Cat She Bought

Pequin's celebrated salon in Paris was crowded, and among those fingering the stylish coats and wraps was Lady Decles, American-born peeress.

Suddenly, a well-upholstered man strode in, eyed a coat in Lady Decles' hands—she was just about to buy it—and said:

"I'll take that coat for my wife." "I didn't argue with him," the former Elizabeth Wharton Drexel of Philadelphia explained after her arrival on the American Export liner Excalibur.

"He was Reich Marshal Hermann Goering," Mrs. Goering is the former Emmy Sonnemann, German actress.

"It was a nice coat, too," she sighed. "Beige with a fur collar."

Lady Decles said Goering now lives in the former French capital.

She asserted she had seen luxurious furniture being moved into the Palais du Luxembourg—seat of the French Senate since 1879—for the Reich marshal.

She said the Germans had taken over all the better known hotels, including the Crillon, the Ritz and the Continental.

Conditions in Paris, she added, were steadily getting worse.

"Even if you have a hundred cards (ration cards)," she said, "it is almost impossible to buy soap or olive oil, and you can purchase only one pair of shoes and one dress a year."

At one time, the moon was an object of devout worship.

"He was my only playmate, and I think that he was genuinely fond of me, and that he pitied what he believed to be my weakness of intellect. Mrs. Edwins' ambition for her son was unbounded; she strived and scraped to send him to a preparatory boarding school, and when he got a little older (as he told me himself) she prevailed upon Miss Mercy to give her the money to send him to college.

"Let me say here that I owe most of my information on the subject to Marling himself—it seems strange to call him by a name which I have borne so long! At that time my mind was undoubtedly clouded. He has described me as a morose, timid boy, who spent day after day in brooding silence, and I should say that that description was an accurate one.

"The fear of her relatives discovering my condition of mind was a daily torment to Miss Mercy. She shut up her house and went to live at a smaller house in the country, and whenever her sisters showed the slightest inclination to visit her, she would move to a distant town. For three years I saw very little of Marling, and then one day Miss Mercy told me that she was engaging a tutor for me. I disliked the idea, but when she said it was Marling I was overjoyed. He came to Bournemouth to see us, and I should not have known him, for he had grown a long golden beard, of which he was very proud. We had long talks together, and he told me of some of his adventures and of the scrapes into which he had got.

"I was the only person in whom he confided, and I know the full story of Miss Gibbons as she was called. He had met her when she was a pretty housemaid in the service of the senior proctor. The courtship followed a tumultuous course, and then one day there arrived at Oxford the girl's mother, who threatened that unless Marling married her daughter, she would inform the senior proctor. This threat, if it were carried out, meant ruin to him, the end of Miss Mercy's patronage, the destruction of all his mother's hopes, and it was not surprising that he took the easiest course. They were married secretly at Cheltenham and lived together in a little village just outside the city of Oxford.

"Of course the marriage was disastrous for Marling. He did not love the girl; she hated him with all the malignity that a common and ignorant person can have for one whose very refinement emphasizes her own uncouthness. The upshot of it was that he left her. Three years later he learned from her mother that she was dead. In point of fact that was not true. She had contracted a bigamous marriage with a man named Smith, who was eventually killed in the war. You have told me, Mr. Carlton, that you found no marriage certificate in her handbag.

"By this time, owing to circumstances which I will explain, Marling had the handling of great wealth. He was queerly generous, but the pound a week which he allowed the mother was, I suspect, in the nature of a thanksgiving for freedom. The money came regularly to her every quarter, and while she suspected who the sender was, she had no proof and was content to go on enjoying her allowance, which was afterwards improperly diverted to her daughter, who, on the death of her mother, assumed her maiden name.

"Marling came to be my tutor, and I honestly think that under his care—I would almost say affectionate guidance—I improved in health, though I was far from well, when Miss Mercy had her seizure. In my crazy despair I remember I accused Marling of killing her, for I saw him pour the contents of a green bottle into a glass and force it between Miss Mercy's pale lips. I am convinced that I did him a grave injustice, though he never ceased to remind me of that green bottle. I think it was part of his treatment to keep my illusion before my eyes until I recognized my error.

"On the death of Miss Mercy I was so ill that I had to be locked in my room, and it was then, I think, that Mrs. Edwins proposed the plan, which was afterwards adopted, namely, the substitution of Marling for myself. You will be surprised and incredulous when I tell you that Marling never forgave the woman for inducing him to take that step. He told me once that she had put him into greater bondage than that in which I was held. From his point of view I think he was sincere. I was hurried away to a cottage in Berkshire, and I knew nothing of the substitution until months afterwards, when I was brought to Park Lane. It was then that he told me my name was Marling, and that he was Harlow. He used to repeat this almost like a lesson, until I became used to the change.

"I don't think I cared very much; I had a growing interest in books, and he was tireless in his efforts to interest me. He claimed, with truth, that whatever imprisonment I suffered, he saved me from imbecility. The quiet of the life, the carefree nature of it, the comfort and mental satisfaction which it gave me, were the finest treatment I could have possibly had. He made me acquainted with the pathological side of my case, read me books that explained just why I was living the very best possible life—again I say, he was sincere.

"Gradually the cloud seemed to dissipate from my mind. I could think logically and in sequence; I could understand what I was reading. More and more the extent of the wrong he had done me became apparent. He never disguised the fact, if the truth be told. Indeed, he disguised nothing. He took me completely into his confidence. I knew every coup he engineered in every detail.

"One night he returned to the house terribly agitated, and told me that he had heard the voice of his wife! He had been to the flat of a man called Ingle, and while he was there two charwomen had come in and he had recognized the voice of one and had swooned.

"He was engaged at that time with Ingle in manoeuvring an amazing swindle. It was none other than the impersonation of the Foreign Minister by Ingle, who was a brilliant actor. The plot was to get the Minister to Park Lane, where he would be drugged and his place taken by Ingle, who, to make himself perfect in the part, had spent a week examining cinematograph pictures of Sir Joseph Layton. In this way he had familiarized himself with Sir Joseph's mannerisms, and had paid one stealthy visit to a public meeting which Sir Joseph had addressed, in order to study his voice. The plan worked. Sir Joseph went into a room with Marling, drank a glass of wine, and was immediately knocked out—I think that is the expression Ingle wanted behind the door already made up, and Marling told me he bore a striking resemblance to the Minister. He went out from the house, drove to the House of Commons, and delivered a war speech which brought the markets tumbling down.

"But before this happened there was a tragedy at 704, Park Lane. Apparently, when Marling approached Ingle the actor-convict had been in some doubt as to whether he should go to meet him. Ingle at first suspected a trap and wrote a letter declining to meet. Afterward he changed his mind, but left the letter on his writing desk, and the charwoman, Mrs. Gibbons, seeing the envelope was marked 'Urgent, by hand,' came to the conclusion that her master had gone out and forgotten the letter, and with a desire to oblige, she herself brought it to Park Lane. Marling opened the door to her and had the shock of his life, for immediately he recognized her. He invited her into the library and there she slipped on the parquet floor and fell, cutting her head against the corner of the desk. They made every effort to restore her: that I can vouch for. They even brought her down to help, but she was dead, and there arose the question of disposing of the body.

"Marling never ceased to blame himself that he did not call in the police immediately and tell them the truth, but he was afraid to have his name mentioned in connection with a man who had recently been discharged from a convict prison, and in the end he and Mrs. Edwins took the body to Hyde Park and dropped it in the water. You tell me there were signs of a struggle, but that is not so. The footprints were Mrs. Edwins' and not the dead woman's.

"Marling never saw the letter which the woman brought, and which must have fallen from her pocket when they were carrying her down the slope toward the canal. He told me all about it afterward, and I know he spoke the truth."

(Here Mr. Harlow's narrative was interrupted for two hours as he showed some sign of fatigue. It was resumed at his own request just before midnight.)

"Marling regarded his crimes as jokes, and always referred to them as such. It is, I believe, a common expression among the criminal classes and one which took my fancy. The great 'joke' about Sir Joseph was the plan to restore him to his friends. I think it was partly Ingle's idea, and was as follows. Two nigger minstrel suits were procured, exactly alike, and it was arranged that Harlow had vanished as though the earth had opened; nor was he ever seen again, though sometimes there came news from the Continent of gigantic operations engineered through Spanish banks by an unknown plutocrat.

The Splendid Harlow had cached most of his money in Spain, and though Jim visited that country, he pursued no inquiries.

People of their honeymoon have very little time for criminal investigation.

"If I had only known about that Infernal police station!" he said once as they were loafing through the Puerta del Col.

Allen changed the subject at the earliest possible moment. For she had known about the plank beds which were doors to freedom.

It was too good a joke for Harlow to keep to himself. And in telling her he ran very little risk. He had an extensive knowledge of humans. The End.

REUNION IN WAR-TORN LONDON

Separated from one another and from their parents when a school in which all were waiting was struck by a bomb, brothers and sisters of a London family stage a joyous reunion, above. Alex. Smith, 17, and Tommy, 13, were sent to different districts after being pulled out of the demolished building. The two little girls, Mary, 3, and Rosemary, eight months, were thought to be dead. The mother and grandmother were killed. The father, away at sea, knows nothing of the tragedy.

Need Perfect Vision

Men Of Air Force With Defective Vision Must Stay On Ground

Men with defective vision who manage to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force can take it for granted they'll spend their time on the ground. Group Capt. R. W. Ryan said at Ottawa.

Group Capt. Ryan, brought to Canada from England to organize the R.C.A.F.'s new medical service, said perfect vision is one of the prime requisites to air service.

He didn't think much of the reports that tests at Fort Sill, Okla., have proven color blind men can see through camouflage better than men with normal vision. He said he had sufficient authentic evidence to convince him that wasn't so.

And as far as the air force is concerned, "color receptivity is vitally important to a pilot or air observer."

"He must be able to distinguish colors perfectly," Group Capt. Ryan said. "He has to be able to pick out the different signals and lighting arrangements on landing fields."

That's the reason color-blindness doesn't do the ground in the R.C.A.F. But anyway, even if the Fort Sill tests were accurate, the air force has an even better way to distinguish camouflaged objects.

By using a simple instrument which might be termed the "spectacles" of a plane, camouflage can be spotted. The instrument blots out different colors and makes the whole camouflaged object stand out clearly.

Group Capt. Ryan doesn't think much of the type of camouflage used on buildings and automobiles in Britain. He pointed out that such camouflage is applied by commercial concerns or individuals, not by the army, and "it's just a waste of paint."

"But if it makes the people who use it feel happy and safe, it has its psychological value," he said.

Group Capt. Ryan said military officials are using new methods of camouflage, but he didn't disclose any of the secret details.

Plan Meets Approval

President Roosevelt's Idea Of Paying For Goods By Goods

Labor Minister Ernest Bevin declared that "President Roosevelt's great idea of paying for goods by goods will not only help to win the war, but take us out of the hands of speculators at the end of the war."

"This reference to the president's plan to lend arms to Britain was made in a luncheon address to the Foreign Press Association. Mr. Bevin added:

"It is an indication that the president accepts the view that the greatest contribution to international stabilization at the end of the war is labor and effort and not speculation and manipulation of currency."

The minister said the Royal Navy was doing work which five navies did in the first Great War, and that everyone has now to be on one side or the other in the conflict. There can be no neutrality between right and wrong.

At this moment, Britain and her allies are in the front line fighting this battle, he said.

Great Britain is fighting for a principle which, when established finally, will govern the conduct of humanity for generations to come.

"The commonwealth idea on a basis of equality must be the basic principle of future security and prosperity in the world."

THESE HANDSOME DRAPES EASY TO MAKE YOURSELF

Diagrams Explain Pinch Pleats

What stunning drapery effects you can get—so inexpensively—by making your own curtains.

Combine diagonal stripes with a solid color as in our sketch, know a few curtain-making tips and you turn an ordinary pair of windows into a striking picture.

Sateens, rayon taffetas drape beautifully. For colors, how would you like burgundy with burgundy striped in turquoise?

So your curtains will hang in graceful even folds make the professional pinch pleats or French headings.

First fold top of curtain over twice for heading (Diagram 1). Then mark off for pleats and spaces between (2).

Now bring ends of each pleat together, stitch from top to base of heading, and then press pipes in, forming two additional folds and fastening them as shown (3). For trimmer pleats, just flatten and stitch (4).

Other steps go as easily with professional curtain pointers. Our 32-page booklet gives complete directions and diagrams for all types of draperies, formal and informal; also glass curtains, drapery-curtains. Tells how to trim and finish; includes smart styles with swags, valances, cornices. Tips on fabrics, colors.

Hints that the German Gestapo may be hard-pressed in coping with widespread disorder in German-occupied countries were contained in a German radio appeal quoted by the British Broadcasting Corporation. It added that pamphlets stressing the advantages of being a German spy can be obtained from all police stations at Hitler youth centres throughout Germany.

Lethbridge Trimmed Miners 6-3 in League Game Last Saturday

Condition of Opponents Tells on Miners; Petrovsky, Seaman and Fields Score For Miners.

Coleman Miners, with only two practices this season, proved no match for the finely conditioned Lethbridge Juniors who romped to an easy 6-3 victory over the locals. The game was played at Lethbridge and was the first game of the season for the Miners. Lethbridge had previously massacred Blairmore Bearcats 10-3 in a previous game played at Lethbridge.

However, once the Pass teams can get ice a different story is expected to be told, as the Pass teams have the advantage in weight and experience. The problem at the present time is how to stop Lethbridge from getting too far ahead.

Jock Tennant was the spark plug of the Lethbridge attack, getting four goals. The junior were enjoying a 5-0 lead in the third period before Petrovsky, assisted by Seaman, solved the Lethbridge defence and bulged the twine behind Sorokoski. Seaman got the local's second goal on an assist by Johnny Ellick, and Bill Fields scored the third on a pass from Stewart Murdoch.

The two teams will again clash on Thursday, this time at the local arena.

Personnel of the Miners: Slugg; Troze, Ellick; Roughhead; Seaman; Petrovsky; Kwamie, Fields, Fleming, Murdoch, Harry; Garrett.

MAIL FROM WAR PRISONER VERY SLOW

Reg. Jones is in receipt of a card from his brother Ronald who is a German prisoner of war. The card was mailed in Germany the latter part of July this year and reached his father, Mr. Garfield Jones, in England in November. Mr. Garfield Jones then forwarded the card to Reg.

Ronald was allowed to say very little, just sufficient to let his family know he is still alive and hoping to see them again some day. The card has then to pass the German censors and when it reaches Britain it has to be inspected by the British censors.

He was taken prisoner at the historic evacuation of Dunkirk, being a member of a company of engineers.

Regardless of the fact of how long his cards take to reach members of his family they are ever grateful to receive them and know that he is still alive.

Miss Gladys Lees spent the New Year's holiday with friends at Lethbridge.

The Journal reciprocates the good wishes of Pte. and Mrs. George Burchell, of Pembroke, Ont., received in a New Year's card this week.

Mr. Joe DeCocco spent the Christmas holiday at Kimberley visiting his daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Fabro and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Redisky. He also travelled with the Kimberley hockey club, of which Ben Redisky is a member, around the Kootenay circuit. Sorry to relate Kimberley lost to both Trail and Nelson.

Lions Will Canvass Town

will be marked into ten sections. As every hundred wage earners are signed up a section of the thermometer will be painted in red paint. It will be the duty of the canvassers to keep the paint rising steadily on the thermometer. Citizens will be kept posted weekly on the progress of the campaign. The coal companies are aiding by donating a liberal share of their advertising space. A message to the public is contained there this week and all are urged to read it. In pledging oneself to buying war savings certificates, it is only a case of loaning the government your money which will come back to you with interest. The public is asked to treat the canvassers with courtesy. They are not asking you to buy anything. They only ask that you loan the Dominion government money required to further Canada's war effort. The Alberta Committee of the war savings committee is fully behind the Coleman effort, watching its progress keenly and if it is a success they are going to try and promote a like campaign throughout the towns and cities of Alberta.
